

Rotem Sigall Boneh, RD

Rotem Sigall Boneh is a Registered Dietitian and researcher. She received her Bachelors of Science in Nutrition with honors from The Hebrew University of Jerusalem in Israel. She is currently working on an advanced degree in Epidemiology and Preventive Medicine at the Sackler School of Medicine at Tel Aviv University. She received the Outstanding Dietitian award from the Israeli Society of Dietitians in 2017. She is currently the Clinical Trials Project Manager at Wolfson Medical Center in Holon, Israel, located in the southern Tel Aviv metropolitan area.

Rotem is past chair of the Dietitians of the European Crohn's & Colitis organization. Her research interest is the role of nutrition therapy in Inflammatory Bowel Disease. She has several publications in peer-reviewed journals such as but limited to Journal of Crohn's & Colitis, GUT, and Journal of Pediatric Gastroenterology Nutrition (JPGN). Her most recent publication focuses on the role of partial enteral nutrition with a Crohn's Disease Exclusion Diet and its effect on induction of remission in children and young adults with Crohn's Disease.